

Engraved game map with hand colour, dissected and mounted on linen, folding into original cloth slipcase, lettered in gilt.

A VOYAGE ROUND THE WORLD

Wallis's New Game, Exhibiting a Voyage round The World.

Author

WALLIS, Edward

Publication date

[c1823].

Publisher

Published by E. Wallis, 42 Skinner Street and 12 High Street, Islington,

Publication place

London,

Physical description

Engraved game map with hand colour, dissected and mounted on linen, folding into original cloth slipcase, lettered in gilt.

Dimensions

490 by 630mm (19.25 by 24.75 inches).

Notes

Wallis first published a game of this nature in 1796 (see Whitehouse facing p.7 for an illustration). By the 1820s, a number of new discoveries had been incorporated together with other refinements made to the game itself.

The sheet contains the world in two conjoined hemispheres with five additional hemispheres around the outside consisting of "Geographical Circles", "Zones", "Parallels of Latitude", "Meridians", and an "Explanation of Geographical Characters". The players circumnavigate the world, travelling east around Africa, through India, "New Holland", north to China and Japan, then south through North and South America, west to New Zealand and the Pacific Islands, before crossing back to the South Atlantic and returning to port in London.

Bibliography

Provenance

Price:

Inventory reference: 10796

© Daniel Crouch Rare Books Ltd | 2025