Notes

Waldeseemuller's striking map of Scandinavia.

This work was based on the manuscript maps of Sanuto and Vesconte of c.1320, which were updated by Nicholaus Germanus in 1482 to include more cities and textual information. As noted by Ginsberg:

“Waldseemüller’s map...appeared in the supplemental section of modern maps. A faithful copy of the Ulm map published thirty-one years earlier, it too, is a woodcut. The title, however, differs from the Ulm 1486 edition by no longer referring to Prussia and Livonia. As on the 1482 map, Norway is shown as “norbegia.” Most of the same cities are also included- “asto” (oslo, ‘begensis” (Bergen), Nodrosia (Niadros or Trondheim), and “Stauargnsis.”. The lines of text in letterpress on the right-hand side that specify lines of parallel and lengths of days have been retained”.
