Second edition. Double-page woodcut map (155 by 335mm to the neatline, full margins), running title and pagination “Libro Socondo LI” appears above the neatline, 7-line Italian text beneath the image, Italian text and small woodcut vignette of “Scarpanto” – ie Karpathos, on verso (old stab holes in central vertical fold, insignificant wormholes, short marginal tear lower left).

EARLY MAP OF CRETE BY BORDONE

Candia.

Author
BORDONE, Benedetto di

Publication date
1534

Publisher
Nicolo d’Aristoile, detto Zoppino,

Publication place
Venice,

Physical description
Second edition. Double-page woodcut map (155 by 335mm to the neatline, full margins), running title and pagination “Libro Socondo LI” appears above the neatline, 7-line Italian text beneath the image, Italian text and small woodcut vignette of “Scarpanto” – ie Karpathos, on verso (old stab holes in central vertical fold, insignificant wormholes, short marginal tear lower left).

Dimensions
300 by 395mm. (11.75 by 15.5 inches).

Notes
A fine and detailed map of the island of Crete, known as the Venetian Kingdom of Candia from the thirteenth to the seventeenth century. Published in the rare second edition of the “Isolario di Benedetto Bordone”, first published in 1528. Surrounded by many smaller islands, all major ports, towns, and important landmarks are shown, such as Mount Ida in the west.

Benedetto di Bordone’s (1460-1539) “Isolario…”, or book of islands, was the first printed isolario to encompass the entire world, the only printed isolario to precede it was the little book of Bartolomeo dalli Sonetti, 1485, which covered only the Aegean islands. The isolario was a popular genre that had first appeared in manuscript examples by Cristoforo Buondelmonte dating from the early 15th-century, Bordone expanded on the usual theme to encompass lands beyond the eastern Mediterranean, the Aegean archipelago and the Levant, to guide travelers other parts of Europe and the world, stretching as far as the Indian Ocean, the African coastline and the New World.

Bibliography
Shirley, BL, T.BORD-1a.

Provenance

Price:

Inventory reference: 12710

© Daniel Crouch Rare Books Ltd | 2025