

Chromolithograph plan, minor repairs to corners and old folds strengthened.

GILL'S HUMOROUS MAP OF LONDON AND ITS UNDERGROUND STATIONS

The Wonderground Map of London Town.

Author

GILL, Macdonald

Publication date

1924 [but 1927].

Publisher

Printed & Published by The Westminster Press, 11 Henrietta Street, Covent Garden, W.C.,

Publication place

London,

Physical description

Chromolithograph plan, minor repairs to corners and old folds strengthened.

Dimensions

750 by 945mm. (29.5 by 37.25 inches).

Notes

Gill's humorous map of London and its underground stations.

"During his lifetime MacDonald Gill's acclaim rested on artistic endeavours of amazing diversity; one area of particular celebrity involved the pictorial maps he designed for both governmental and private organisations. The first of these maps was commissioned in 1913 as a poster for use in the stations of the privately held Underground Electric Railways Company. The enthusiasm of the public for this poster was such that a smaller version, titled the Wonderground Map of London Town, was published for sale the following year.

On the occasion of Gill's death in 1947 the Journal of the Royal Institute of British Architects referred to this Wonderground Map as "a cartographical masterpiece." Its groundbreaking design, with emphasis on visual and verbal whimsy and bold primary colors, awakened a generation of cartographers to the imaginative possibilities of pictorial mapmaking." (Elizabeth Burden)

The text around the map reads:

"The Heart of Britain's Empire Here is Spread Out for Your View. It Shows You Many Stations & Bus Routes Not a Few. You Have Not the Time to Admire it All? Why not Take a Map Home to Pin on Your Wall."

The current example dates from 1927 and bears, to the upper left, a greyhound above a sign 'On to Wembley'. This is a change from the lion featured in the previous edition of 1924, used to denote the location of The British Empire Exhibition of that year.

Bibliography

Provenance

Price: £3000

Inventory reference: 22644